MESSAGE

I am pleased to know that the Indian Civil and Administrative Service Officers' Wives' Association (IASOWA) is launching its website to highlight its work and achievements and to reach out to the people.

During the last 41 years of its meaningful existence, the Association has made sincere efforts to be of help to society, especially to the poor and the underprivileged, in various ways. Activities of the Association such as the Susheel Balwadi for children from financially weaker sections and the Vocational Centre for economically backward women are praiseworthy and deserve to be sustained in future also. It is nice to have an organisation like the Association for socio-cultural interaction among members and their families.

I congratulate the Association on the joyous occasion of its 41st Anniversary and wish it continued success its future endeavours. My best wishes for the successful launch of the Association's website.
